IMPRISONMENT FOR LIFE, IS SENTENCE BY JUDGE BERNON

NO HOPE OF PARDON UNDER LAWS OF OHIO.

THREE BALLOTS

Jury Discards Insanity Idea; Attorneys Are Satisfied With Verdict.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Cleveland.—Mrs. Eva Catherine Kaber, Saturday was found guilty of murder in the first degree, but with a recommendation of mercy by the jury which tried her, on a charge of plotting the killing of her husband, Daniel F. Kaber.

Mrs. Kaber is the first woman in Cuyahoga county to be convicted of first degree murder.

William H. Corrigan, Mrs. Kaber's counsel, said he was satisfied with the verdict. The same expression was made by County Prosecutor Edward C. Stanton.

When Mrs. Kaber was carried to the courtroom, the jury made an official report of the verdict. Mrs. Kaber, who was lying limp in the arms of a deputy sheriff, was asked if she had anything to say. She merely shook her head indicating she had not. Judge Bernon then pronounced sentence. Mrs. Kaber was carried back to her cell in the jail. Later she was reported in a stupor.

The jury took only three ballots, it was said, two being nine for mercy and three for first degree murder without mercy. Before balloting the jury had discarded the insanity plea.

Two Years After Crime

The jury began balloting just two years, the third Friday in July, from the time Mr. Kaber was stabbed to death by assassins alleged to have been hired by Mrs. Kaber.

Though Mrs. Kaber was suspected of being implicated in her husband's death at the time, insufficient evidence was found then by officials to charge her formally with the crime. For two years Moses Kaber, aged father of the murdered man, persistently kept working on the mystery with the aid of private detectives. Finally a brother of Mrs. Kaber was brought in as a ruse and her mother, Mrs. Mary Erickson, who was suspected of having murdered the man, was led to believe that the son was to be charged with the crime.

Ruse Is Successful. The ruse worked as it had been planned. Mrs. Kaber, who said the son, alleged to have confessed implicating her daughter, Mrs. Kaber; Miss Marian McArdle, daughter of Mrs. Kaber; herself and others.

Events then followed fast. The grand jury indicted Mrs. Kaber and her daughter were indicted for first degree murder, also Mrs. Erickson, Colavito, mid-wife nurse, Salvatore, Calavito and Vito Risselli, the latter two being charged with the actual murder.

All are awaiting trial excepting Risselli, who has not been apprehended. Mrs. Kaber was the first placed on trial.

Stabbed to Death

Mrs. Kaber was stabbed to death the night of July 18, 1919. An autopsy showed he had been stabbed in the hips and abdomen 24 times and that arsenic had been fed him in his food for weeks before he was murdered.

BLAINE DEPLORES PLEDGE FAILURE

Tax Burden Equalization Still Problem; Special Session Unlikely.

Madison. — The disappointment of the past session of the legislature was the failure to carry out the party pledge to equalize tax burdens. Governor Blaine says in a formal statement issued Saturday that no tax levy bill will be needed and that there will be no necessity for a special session during the biennium.

"With the closing of the legislature, I desire to state that there will be no state levy for the next biennium period," the statement reads. "We will keep within our income. The condition of the country demands the utmost economy."

"I vetoed appropriation bills passed by the legislature exceeding $500,000 and there are other large appropriations that will be materially cut by executive veto in order to keep within the income."

"Every public undertaking, however, will be sufficiently financed to protect the public welfare. I also desire to state that there will be no necessity for a special session of the legislature, unless there is an unforeseen emergency, as the constitution contemplates."

"The disappointment of the session was the failure to carry out the party pledge to equalize tax burdens. I made it clear during the session that there should be no additional taxes imposed. It was likewise made clear that the tax burden should be more equally distributed."

Passing Through Crisis.

"That remains a problem for the future. Members who refused to carry out their pre-election promises to the people must be held to account if campaign pledges are to mean anything."

"We are passing through a crisis that will require much fortitude on the part of the people. But we will win in the end, as we have in the past. The turn in the road may be just ahead, or it may be some distance in the future. When it comes, the state will be in better shape to promote further progressive measures in the interest of the general welfare, by reason of sane, retrenchment at present."

Some appropriation bills which I signed, in my opinion, authorize unnecessary expenditures. I could not veto these specific items and so I signed them, with reservation that in administration no unnecessary expense will be permitted where the essential part of the bill is discarded."

"A feature of the summer in church circles has been the work of the Janesville Methodist gospel team and men's chorus, shown above, which has been conducting Sunday night services in cities and villages of the surrounding country. Business and professional men of the city speak in high praise of the group, often containing as many as 75 persons, traveling in automobiles."

E. E. Van Pool is chorus leader and Frank Dean, leader of community singing. The following men speak: Dr. T. W. Nussim, Charles E. Moore, Austin T. G. Seobie, George A. Jacobs, E. G. Owen, E. P. Hocking, Lucian Holman, Nelson Hinds, J. E. Lane, Elmer St. Clair and Charles Atkinson.

"A Man's Need of Religion as a Public Servant" will be the topic of Lucian Holman, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, at the same time was given by Mr. Moore last week at Fort Atkinson.

His body sank immediately, but was recovered within ten minutes by life-guards using grappling-hooks. The first day brought the bicycle, the second brought the boy's body. The use of the pulmotor failed to revive him.

DOG TAX LAW HAS SOME NEW KINKS

Dog Census Must be Taken by Police—Fund in Police Pension

Copies of the Wisconsin dog tax law recently enacted by the legislature, detailing the methods to be used in collecting the tax have been received in Rock county. The collection is under the direction of the city and town treasurers in a manner similar to the old law.

In the cities of Rock county the census must be taken by members of the police department and the police pension fund will receive a fee of 15 cents for each dog reported. Town assessors make the township census. The dog taxes are paid along with the regular real estate tax collections next January and February and will be placed in a common fund. Out of this fund comes claims for the killing of farm animals by dogs which cannot be identified. In event the owners of dogs causing the damage are known, the amount is paid out of the fund and then recouped from the owners.

The bulk of the fund will go to the police pension fund, providing there is a balance after all claims are satisfied through action by the county board. After the payment of expenses the remaining amount is to be apportioned to the city and towns in keeping with the number of dogs reported. The towns may pay the money into any fund, but in the cities, the balance under the law must be paid to the police pension fund.

MARRIAGE LICENSE.

Application for marriage license was made Saturday by Rocco Malossi and Marie Pipitone, both of South Deloit, at the office of County Clerk Howard W. Lea.

POSTAL BUSINESS HERE DECREASES

Bulk Is $5,000 Less Than in First Six Months of 1920.

A decrease of $5,000 in the business done by the Janesville post-office in the first six months of 1921, compared with the last half of 1920, is noted in the report of Postmaster Cunningham, who has completed his report for the 1921 fiscal year, which closed June 30. This is much better than expected, owing to the business depression.

During the last half of 1920, from June 30 to Dec. 31, the business amounted to $60,358.68, and in 1921 from Jan. 1 to June 30, was $55,358.68. Business in first six months in 1921 as compared with the same period in 1920, when the boom in Janesville was at its height, shows a decrease of $8,561.40.

There is little difference in the total amount of the business for the 1921 fiscal year and that of 1920, as the busiest season came in the last half of 1920 fiscal year and the first part of 1921. Figures compiled by the postoffice show the 1920 fiscal year total business as $113,046.40, and 1921 as $115,667.50.

A slight increase is noted in April, May and June over those of January, February and March, this year. The figures for the first quarter are $27,555.50 and for the second, $27,843.62.

Six thousand dollars more of postage stamps and stock were sold over the counter in the first six months of 1921, than the same period in 1920. In 1920 period business totaled $22,598.34 and 1921, $25,663.60.

JAP CAUTION AGAIN HAS UPPER HAND

Wary Nipponese Don't Want to Reopen Questions Considered "Closed."

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
Copyright 1921, by Janesville Gazette.

Washington—Japan's hesitancy to accept unreservedly America's invitation to discuss Far Eastern problems is thoroughly understood here, though of course officially nothing is said about it.

Briefly, Japan does not wish to reopen questions which she considers closed. Eventually Japan will consent to a discussion of some Far Eastern questions, but just now she is particularly anxious to know what the scope of the Washington conference will be. It is the usual Japanese caution, when a question is mentioned in a conference of powers. The same wariness was exhibited at the Versailles conference. It is a matter of record that the Japanese were most careful not to commit themselves in Paris on anything that seemed to limit Japan's opportunity to dominate the Far East. The Versailles treaty granted to Japan certain privileges in the Pacific which they are unwilling to surrender and it is well known that Japan has felt sensitive about the criticism in the United States at the provision in the same treaty which gave Shantung to Japan.

Japan realizes that the United States has not ratified the Versailles treaty, and is, therefore, in a position to bring up any questions in the Far East, including Japan's relations to China. The thought that President Harding invited China to sit in the conference was in itself a notification that Japanese-Chinese controversies would be aired in an effort to establish peace in the Far East, and for a move possible reasons for military or naval intervention in the future on the part of European and American powers. Japan naturally does not like to have China sit in an international conference which would give China a chance to reopen matters which Japan holds as settled.

Another thing that is worrying the Japanese is whether the Washington conference will make an agreement that will supersede existing understandings. Japan, for example, feels that she has derived certain benefits from the Lansing-Ishii agreement, which while it is occasionally repudiated by the Harding administration, is not especially liked, and probably will be treated as many of the acts on foreign policies of the Wilson administration have been. The same is true of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, which has not been renewed, although it continues temporarily in effect. Will the Japanese feel that the Lansing-Ishii agreement and the Anglo-Japanese alliance set aside in favor of a new convention, or will the new understanding preserve Japanese supremacy in the Far East?

It is largely on the inadequacy of cable communication between Japan and the United States that all the circumstances surrounding the call of the disarmament conference have not been made plain in Tokyo, but what the issues are finally defined the foregoing fundamentals will be uppermost in the Japanese mind, no matter whether the Japanese delegation have been invited to come to Washington to discuss limitation of armaments alone or Far East questions as well. The prevailing view here is that the Japanese never will specifically refuse to discuss Far Eastern questions, but will always reserve the right to restrict the scope of such a discussion purely to its bearing on the armament problem. In other words, the Tokyo in Washington have no doubt that the Japanese will ultimately come into the conference on the same terms as the other powers, but that the Japanese government will hesitate to permit Japanese public opinion to believe that Japan enters such a conference ready to open up matters that are considered by the Japanese to be concluded. In particular, no Japanese cabinet member would be expected to appear ready to open up with China the matters covered in the famous 22 demands.

There are many problems pending between the United States and Japan, such as the charges of the Japanese that the people of California discriminate against the Japanese race. The British dominions, including Canada, Australia and New Zealand, have the same racial problem to solve as California. The influx of Japanese immigrants has been so plainly denounced by the English speaking peoples living on the shores of the Pacific that Japan may hesitate to permit the racial controversy to be aired anew, because of the certain effect of such a policy upon Japanese public opinion. Japan realizes that it is perhaps better to keep such delicate questions within the secret channels of diplomatic discussion than to try to reconcile racial differences in an international conference.

Sought Separate Confab.
It is believed here that the Japanese were in favor of a separate conference on Far Eastern questions in London, chiefly because it would not appear to Japanese public opinion to be a matter different from the Anglo-Japanese conversations, which had been going on there. It is the transference of the discussion from London to Washington which irks the Japanese. President Harding will insist upon an all-inclusive conference. Both he

25 BOYS ARE IN BICYCLE RACE

There are enough boys in Janesville and Gazette territory anxious to own a World Bicycle to make a veritable regiment of riders. Think of 100 boys riding World Bicycles. There may be as many as that. It is quite likely that such will be the case. Add to that a number of girls. You have a combination of formidable riders. Is there any pleasure nearer to the boy's or girl's heart than to be free to go into the country and tramp the woods, seek out the wild places and what a part the bicycle does play in the freedom of action.

The Gazette has set its immediate mark at 10,000 circulation. That is not far to go. That number will be increased later to 12,000 and the spirit displayed on the part of earnest boys who really want to earn something from their own efforts in securing 25 new, yearly subscribers, will help bring about this total figure without much delay. Every boy who is wide awake can win out on the bicycle offer. Your friends and their friends are interested in boys. They are also interested in the best daily newspaper published in the country. You can say that for the Gazette freely. Show a sample copy and the order is secured. Try it out and see.

The World Bicycle is an old established make. Your Father doubtless rode one. Represents the best you can own and is a fitting companion to a good canvasser with a good paper. One of the World Bicycles is on exhibition at the Gazette Office and the Wood Hardware Company, 115 E. Milwaukee St., arrangements with whom the Gazette has made to supply these famous wheels.

How many days before you will own a World Bicycle? As soon as your 25 new, yearly subscribers are turned into the Circulation Department of the Gazette and have been checked as being correct, then do you get your wheel.

CONDITIONS: Any boy or girl in Janesville or the surrounding territory may enter.
Subscriptions must be obtained for one year and be turned in to the Janesville Daily Gazette Circulation Department between now and the first of September.
Boys and girls are not required to pay any money. Merely send in the special blank with the subscriber's signature.

BUSINESS LOOKING UP, SAYS MAGNATE

Cooperation Will Do Much to Restore Prosperity, Is Word of Ryan.

New York—Optimistic views regarding business conditions are expressed by J. P. Morgan, financial magnate, when he left for Europe Saturday on the Olympic. He said determination and co-operation would help restore prosperity much sooner than most people think. His statement follows:

"I feel confident that business conditions all over the world, with few exceptions, are slowly but persistently improving. For many months, merchants are buying only what they can sell for cash. Consumers have had to listen to so much pessimistic talk, because they have been expecting still further reductions in prices, that they are buying only what is absolutely necessary for their daily wants. People everywhere have been scared. They are getting over that. The people of this country are the greatest consumers of food and manufactured products in the world. Normal times are slowly coming back.

"While the labor question is difficult, there are many places which show that union as well as non-union laborers are honestly willing and trying to do their part in readjustment. I hope the standard of living and prices of the workingman will never reach the pre-war level. To force that would be a bad thing for everybody. Evils created in seven years, largely by a disastrous war, cannot be corrected in a few days, but a spirit of co-operation and the settlement of foreign and domestic questions which so vitally affect economic conditions and the prosperity of all our people."

Pleads for 2.75 Barley Beer

Washington—A plea for 2.75 per cent barley malt beer was made before the joint congressional commission on agriculture Saturday by R. A. Jones, representing Minnesota Grain Dealers, and Charles Kenny, representing Minnesota Farm Elevators association.

Mr. Jones estimated that malt beer legislation would mean an addition of $300,000,000 a year to northwest farmers and suggested a 2.75 per cent rate. The department of agriculture to establish that 2.75 per cent beer was non-intoxicating.

Mr. Kenny comes from the district of Representative Volstead.

$500,000 Church Planned to be Community Center for Entire Countryside

Members of the Footville Church of Christ, of which the Rev. Gerald E. Smith is pastor, are considering erecting a new $500,000 edifice, in place of the present building, to be used also as the center of community events.

The Rev. Mr. Smith has agreed to renew his contract, which expires in the fall, as pastor of the church, if the new edifice is erected. A new church is absolutely needed, it is pointed out, as the present edifice already is packed each Sunday.

The little church at Footville, which has become famous as one of the most active rural churches in Wisconsin since Mr. Smith assumed the pastorate, has attracted people from a large section of the county who come, many of them as far as 20 to 30 miles, to attend services. Mr. Smith's plan is to have the church on a 10-acre plot, arranged with playgrounds and to allow plenty of space for outdoor festivals and parking space for autos.

A cafeteria would be installed and the congregation after discussing the morning sermon on Sunday, would go to the cafeteria and have their dinner at a nominal price. A gymnasium also would be constructed and athletic contests throughout the year, especially in the winter when there is less to occupy the attention of the farmers and village people.

More than 300 members attend church services regularly, and there are as well as one of the finest in a budget of $8,000 for the work this year. If the church is erected it will give Footville a real community center as well as one of the finest churches in Wisconsin and the best in any rural community.

Canadian Oil Field May Avert Famine

Dotted line indicates triangular district in Canada where recent developments have caused a gigantic oil boom.

Vancouver, B. C.—A year ago the world was facing a famine in oil. We were told both by the experts in government and by the private corporations that the United States was using from 100,000,000 to 120,000,000 barrels a year than the oil wells of the United States were producing. Great transcontinental rail systems and ocean lines began converting their oil burners back to coal engines.

The greatest factor relieving the state of the oil famine was the discovery and proof of three great new oil areas in 1920—one in Columbia, one in Wyoming, one in Canada. It is with the Canadian discovery this story deals.

Yust Extent of Field. Take a map of western Canada. Draw an almost straight line from Fort Good Hope on Mackenzie river down to Jasper in the Yellow Head Pass, where the Canadian National railroad enters the Rockies. Make that line the base of your triangle. Then draw lines from the base to the extreme eastern end of Great Slave lake. It is within the area of this triangle that the discoveries of oil have been made in the north.

The base of the triangle is roughly about 1,300 miles long. The sides are roughly about 500 miles long. Along the base are the famous oil fields of Alberta and Saskatchewan. Along the sides are the old fields near Edmonton, Calgary, and the new fields near Fort McMurray, Athabasca, and the Athabasca river. The discoveries of oil are misleading. Ever since Sir Alexander MacKenzie went down the Mackenzie in 1789 and traversed the Foothills of the Pacific in 1792, gas wells and oil seeps, bituminous asphalt and tar beds have been known to exist.

Well Burns Center. One of these gas wells has been burning for years at a rate of 10,000,000 cubic feet a day since 1789. Average the gas at 80 cents a thousand feet—the common rate for manufactured gas—or at 15 to 20 cents a thousand feet for natural gas—and you have a faint idea of this waste if you multiply a year's waste by 120 years. It totals in one case $300,000,000 a year, or $360,000,000 for the century. In the other about $200,000,000.

Within the area of this Canadian triangle during the late summer of 1919 and early summer of 1920 there were drilling and prospecting for petroleum.

But the Canadian north is still a long way from an active oil producer. The first well gave from 1,000 to 2,000 barrels a day. Russia's first wells gave from 200 to 3,000 barrels a day; but development was throttled by laws limiting the areas to twelve-five acres until late years, when under more liberal holdings production went up to 50,000,000 barrels a year.

DE VALERA WITH IRISH HEADS IN CONFERENCE

Belief was expressed in responsible quarters that Sir James wished to consult with his colleagues before committing himself to a certain phase of the situation that have developed as a result of Mr. De Valera's visit to London.

There was no suggestion that the brevity of Friday's conversation between the prime minister and De Valera indicated that they had reached a deadlock, nor was the postponement of the conference until Monday looked on as significant of danger.

In fact there seemed to be a change of the tension which prevailed Thursday and Friday and the impression gained was that, while the situation had lost none of its delicacy, progress had been made.

A statement made at De Valera's headquarters during the evening appeared to reflect of the determination of the Irish republicans not to meet Sir James, at least for the time being. It was indicated by the Irish right to enter the conference by refusing to meet the Irish republicans at Dublin, although south Irish unionists had availed themselves of the concern to talk over matters with the republicans.

Situation Touchy. It was stated the republicans looked upon the presence of unionists at the Dublin conference as representation of the unionists from North Ireland and the absence of the latter from the conference as a slight.

Discussions involving the relations of England and Ireland, Sir James was to be considered, it was said, only in matters which concerned international politics.

Sir James Saturday that everything depended upon the way the question was handled.

"The slightest indiscretion or misinterpretation," he said, "may easily cause incalculable harm. What will be the attainment of peace is for everyone concerned to withhold comment outside of official consultations."

De Valera's headquarters was bombarded Saturday morning with requests for comment of various published reports as to the terms, concrete proposals and decisions alleged to have been made during the talks on the peace question already held, but to all inquiries the official rejoinder was:

"We are pledged to secrecy. These reports are pure fabrications out of the minds of their writers and are wholly unwarranted."

News Notes From Movieland

—BY DAISY DEAN

Would you rather be a star, regardless of story or direction, or would you rather forego the applause of individual stardom and play really big roles in big pictures produced by expert directors?

Miriam Cooper, who played the leading feminine role in "The Oath," said that question to ponder over recently. Following her success in "The Oath" Miss Cooper had a number of starring opportunities but she chose to forego stardom here to be "a principal in the cast" of "Serenade." R. A. Walsh's latest all-star production. The filming of "Serenade."

On addition to her firm conviction that individual stardom does not always spell success, Miriam Cooper is old-fashioned enough to believe there is no place like home. "It is over so humble. It's the greatest place in the world," adds the pretty heroine of dozens of screen romances.

VETERAN BALL PLAYER IS BELIEVED SUICIDE

His baggage and some of the clothing he had worn were found in his stateroom.

In "Serenade" Miriam Cooper has the leading feminine role and George Walsh plays opposite her. Raoul directs them both. In the intervening period both Miss Cooper and George have been starring in productions under the Fox banner, but they left so that they might appear in Director Walsh's big independent production.

Street Signs for Tourists, Needed Here

Traffic policemen in Janesville declare street signs are needed for directing tourist traffic through Janesville, advising of the trunk line roads.

They point out there is hardly a sign in Janesville for indicating the routes out of the city and tourists are always required to ask their way.

"I would like to see a huge map placed at the corner of Main and Milwaukee streets showing the streets to the good roads and the nearby cities," said Peter D. Champion. "It is not that an officer does not wish to answer questions or give directions, but even then some tourists have trouble in reaching the streets desired."

The idea is backed by other Janesville patrolmen, who speak of the need of blazed trails until tourists reach the state road marks.

Mary Pickford's Home Life Is Happy

"Won't You Step Into My Parlor?" Invites Little Film Star--How the House She Dreamed of Came True at Last

Copyright 1921, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate and Hayden Talbot.

On March 29th of this year, Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks celebrated their first wedding anniversary together.

Only immediate relatives and a few very dear friends were present.

This momentous event was observed quietly at their Beverly Hills home—a dream home of the kind that Mary has always longed for.

Her ambition to become a great movie actress was always secondary to this yearning desire for a home—a home and babies.

Mary, little Mary, has mothered Jack and Lottie Pickford ever since she can remember, because she always had to mother somebody.

And in her own life story, as told to Hayden Talbot, she reveals many things today that the public has never known before—the homey, sincere ambitions that disclose the real world's sweetheart under her Klieg light makeup.

"MY LIFE"

As Told By

MARY PICKFORD
To HAYDEN TALBOT

THE house where Mary Pickford and her husband, Douglas Fairbanks, live, is situated on a high hill overlooking lower hills and a broad valley in the distance.

This valley is a combination farm and residential section, intersected by asphalt highways, and electric railways.

Behind the Fairbanks home rise more hills, eternally green in their close-grown raiment of stubby brush.

It would be hard to describe the architecture of the house, unless one called it typically modern Californian. A combination of stucco and shingles, it crowns the hill in the form of an L. Let us start in the basement and make a tour of the house in order that you may get an accurate idea of the interior.

Mary Has Beautiful Tapestries

In the basement are storerooms, a fully equipped laundry, a bedroom and bath for the laundress. Stairs lead up to a hallway on the floor above. The house faces west and south, with the main entrance in the bend of the L.

The main hallway takes the form of an L, with stairs at one end winding up to the floor above. This hallway has a blue and white tiled floor, on which are a few Oriental rugs. The furniture is carved antique Italian, and there are some very beautiful tapestries on the walls.

On the first floor are the living room, sun parlor, dining room, breakfast room and kitchen. Also the butler's pantry, a large back porch, with refrigerator, the butler's bedroom and bath, back hall and the front porch, extending from the breakfast room around three sides of the house to the main entrance.

Wherever one looks the eyes rest upon original paintings by Frederick Remington, Dutton and Russell. Another very interesting feature of the place is the books. The thing that impressed me most about them was that they have all been read, which, said to say, is not true of all libraries.

Books Are Old Friends

Although there were many sets with beautiful bindings, none of these volumes have uncut pages. They all have a well read appearance, and in cataloguing them they gave me the impression that they were chosen not because they were classics or best sellers or on account of the bindings matching the scheme of decoration, but rather because each one was wanted for some special reason or because they were old friends.

Another thing that I noticed immediately was that there were books in every room and not only in the bookcases that were made for them. There were books in the bedrooms, on the bedside tables, books in the hallways, books in the sun room, and I believe the only rooms in the house without them were the kitchen and the dining room. There are a good many books personally autographed by the authors and there are some very old volumes. There is, in particular, a set of Rabelais that would excite envy in any collector's heart. The living room for projections.

mahogany. Perhaps it would be of interest to note that there are five and Mrs. Fairbanks by the Mikado floor lamps in it. There is a grand piano of mahogany, numerous tables, a writing desk, built-in bookcases, three large davenport with luxurious pillows, a big fireplace, lots of comfortable chairs, and a heavenly view from French doors.

You know, of course, that this room can be transformed at a moment's notice into a projection room. There are Oriental rugs on the floors. I think the breakfast room is particularly attractive, with its painted furniture in cream color with bright flowers, and the chairs with their patent leather seats. It has long French windows opening out on the porch, is comfortably furnished with green wicker, and looks out upon a sweeping view below.

The sun room is also very attractive, with its gay cretonnes and wicker furniture and ferns and canary birds. It has a tiled floor on which there are a few Orientals. There are only two floors and a basement in the house. Upstairs is a main hall similar to the one below, furnished somewhat on the order of a living room.

The Mikado's Sword

One of the most interesting things

Mary says that she and Douglas Fairbanks are just "home folks." Here they are shown comfortably and apparently, happily settled down on the steps of their home, Beverly Hills.

Mary's Niece, Little Mary Rupp, Doesn't Want to Be a Movie Star

The movies are not a profession that appeals particularly to Miss Pickford's niece, little Mary Rupp, the daughter of Mary's sister Lottie. She is a strange little creature. Often she says things that absolutely amaze you, but everything she says proves she uses her brain and figures out everything for herself—before she speaks.

"Are you going to be a film star when you grow up?"

The child looked up at me with sudden indignation registering in her expression. There wasn't any doubt about it. My question had aroused in the youngster instant and utter contempt. For a moment she said nothing, and then with large emphasis and very slowly she said: "I should—say—NOT!"

Later Miss Pickford endeavored to explain the reason for this tremendous disapproval on the part of her niece for the profession which had meant so much to the Pickford clan. She is a strange little creature. Often she says things that absolutely amaze you, but everything she says proves she uses her brain and figures out everything for herself—before she speaks.

The Punishment of Being a Star

She knows enough herself, even at her age, to know that honesty and decency and every other good quality are present to as large an extent in every motion picture studio as in any other place in the world where men or women, recruited from all walks as being abnormal.

of life, are engaged together in a common task. It isn't at all that she has been taught any of the ridiculously unfair prejudices against film folk that makes her shy away from the idea of entering the profession. It's simply that she knows—from actual observation of what happens to me very often, and to my sister and brother when they are engaged in making pictures—that to become a film star calls for a capacity to take punishment of the most grueling kind. Young as she is, she has already learned that success on the screen can come only as a result of the hardest kind of hard work. And any child of five who would wax enthusiastic over the prospect of downright drudgery—at any task or for any reward—would merit pity just having them.

Mary Loves Her Home

I WANT a home, and babies.

All my life it has been my one great desire to possess a home. Not a palace, mind you, with servants in livery and great big musty-smelling rooms built merely to overwhelm the eye with their magnificence.

What I always wanted was a real home, beautiful, of course, but a place wholly livable, done in quiet tones and furnished in exquisite taste.

I wanted it to be situated on a hill, commanding an unlimited view of the surrounding country, for to me nothing stimulates the imagination more than to look out upon a broad sweep of landscape through unobstructed eyes.

And after dreaming of just such a home ever since I was big enough to build castles in the air, the dream has at last come true.

But we still work hard, Douglas and I. When engaged in picture-making, our family retires at 9 o'clock. No photoplayer can possibly succeed and keep late hours.

The one thing the motion picture patrons must have in their heroes and heroines is youth. Theatregoers demand it, also, but in the theatre it is easier to camouflage wrinkles than before the pitiless eye of the camera. And we all know, even in the case of stage stars, how often women and men go on and on long after their charm has left them—always pitiful spectacles of desire triumphing over sense!

Sufficient rest is absolutely necessary, and by sufficient rest I mean at least nine hours. For myself, I prefer ten.

Of course, if it is between pictures, then we are not so regular with our hours. Often we remain up until midnight, especially when entertaining.

Real Home Folks

In saying that we are real home people, I mean the statement literally, for we go out very little. When we do go, it is usually for an extended trip, consisting of a motor tour or perhaps travel abroad. In this fashion we get the diversion required. But at home we prefer to read or listen to good music.

While neither Douglas nor I play an instrument, many of our friends do, and occasionally we have an orchestra come in from outside, usually when we have guests. Beside all this we have the phonograph and many fine records. There is hardly a book in our entire collection that is not well thumbed, for both my husband and I are voracious readers.

From what I have said, I think you will get a fairly accurate impression of our home life. It is very simple, and we try to keep it truly American, and above all, free from pretence or affectation.

During the making of our photographs our stories are our only companions, for we live with them always, night and day, trying to improve them, to perfect them, to polish them—doing everything possible to give them the highest, entertainment qualities possible to devise.

And in doing it all, we try to remain just plain home folks.

I am determined that I shall never face a camera after I get the first intimation that my work is no longer pleasing to all my public. The one good thing about it is that there is a definite way to determine this. When the box office returns from any picture of mine fall below the average earned by my last 20 pictures—I shall disband my organization and go into a retirement that will never be marked by an re-emergence!

It is possible—and this is a little confidence I have never voiced for publication before—that after I make my last picture I may go back into the theatre and essay one role in the spoken drama.

Of course I have a natural disinclination to follow in the footsteps of some of my sisters of filmdom—who recently brazenly traded on their screen popularity to attract audiences in the spoken drama. And if I ever do play a speaking role again, I should prefer to go under an assumed name—if such a thing were possible—and by so doing prove that I wished my success or failure to be independent of my reputation as a film actress.

After all, in my case, I was an actress for ten years in the spoken drama before I ever entered the motion picture world—and I have a right to want to go back to the footlights, once again.

But over and above everything else the real happiness I like to think about is the home and family I hope the future will bring me. I have always had a home and a family, of course—much more so, it seems to me, than even girls who are not in the professional world. Ever since I can remember there have been my mother and Lottie and Jack for me to think about and work for and be considerate of. And it has really been the happiest part of my life—just having them.

Tractors Swamp Shullsburgh-Hike on to Fond du Lac

"HANK" BRACKETT AND SCHWIND DO THE MOUND WORK

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Shullsburgh Tractors added another badger pelt to their collection on Friday when they scattered the local team to the four winds in a 17 to 4 outburst. Shullsburgh was not in the running at any time.

Handicapped by the loss of Outfielder Brokaw, who has left the team to go to Casper, Wyoming, and the fact that Pitcher Lathrop was unable to remain with the team on the road, the Tractors had to resort to a big switch in the line-up. "Hank" Brackett took a turn on the mound. This is "Hank's" first appearance in the box for several years, although his original playing position was on the hill.

"Artie" Schwind also took a whack at the pitching job when the game was safely sliding along or close. He did well, as did Brackett, Wootton did the catching.

There was nothing to it for the Tractors. It was just one hit after another, being turned into runs.

Score by innings:
Janesville 213 410 228—17 20 0
Shullsburgh 000 110 100—4 10 0
Batteries: Brackett, Schwind and Wootton; Miller and Greylock.

Lathrop Will Not Pitch for Beloit This Week

Bill Lathrop will not appear on the mound for the Beloit Fairies this week, as the Gateway city team had hoped he would. Manager Porling of the Janesville Tractors was here Friday night on a flying trip from Shullsburgh, stopping off on his way to Fond du Lac. He insisted that "Rusty" would have to enter the box for the Tractors against the Reuping Leathers to fill the gap made by Brokaw's withdrawal from the outfit.

Ray Shook, however, will appear as catcher for the Englemakers Saturday as previously planned. He will take the place of Murphy, who had a finger broken a week ago.

Sox Pull Triple Play; Ruth Swings on No. 35

Only two homers were made in the majors on Friday. One of them was Ruth's 35th of the season. In all there were only 43 extra base hits in the majors and the association with only one triple in the majors. They were made as follows:

Home runs—Majors, 2; association, 5; total, 7.
Three base hit—Majors, 1; association, 3; total, 4.
Two base hit—Majors, 20; association, 12; total, 32.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
The White Sox pulled the first triple play of the major league season in defeating Washington Friday, 3 to 2, in all frames. Charley and Johnson were on the sack. Erickson line to Shockey who backed into first in time to double O'Rourke. Charley had taken a big lead off second and Shockey shot the ball to Johnson to nip the former Beloitier off the bag. It was the first extra inning game that Kerr has won for the Duluth Rose.

New York has a clean trimming St. Louis Friday, 7 to 3. It was not necessary, but Babe got his thirty-fifth homer of the year by driving the pill out of the park in the sixth.

With one on in the tenth, C. Walker's home run over the left field fence won for the Athletics. They defeated Detroit, 3 to 2.

Boston took the final of the series from the Indians when Cleveland threw away two good chances to score by executing poor work on the paths. The score was 3 to 2.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
All games postponed on account of rain.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION
After two headlong defeats, the Egansites came back to stage a real baseball contest Friday and defeated Louisville, 2 to 1. Barnes' work on the rubber and timely hits by Machows and Lear enabled the Brewers to get away with it.

Pounding two Toledo pitchers for 15 hits, Joe Cantillon's Millers took Toledo into camp for the second time in two days. The score was 11 to 4. Russell got his nineteenth home run of the season.

With Miller getting his sixteenth circuit drive of the year, and driving Shea off the hill in the third, Columbus beat St. Paul, 6 to 3.

Five of the runs made by Kansas City in defeating Indianapolis, 7 to 0, were made on four base hits.

Carp Plans New Fight With Jack

New York. — Notwithstanding defeat by Jack Dempsey in Jersey City on July 2, Georges Carpentier here will seek a return match for the championship, believing that by an open style battle he may be able to win.

In a statement made at his training camp after the Jersey City match, Carpentier said he would fight any man in the world excepting Dempsey, but his closest friends now say that he has changed his mind. Georges disobeyed the orders of his advisers and forced the fight with the champion, and therein, it is claimed, he made the biggest mistake.

Should Georges again be matched with Dempsey and the bout held in New York state, where the boxing rules permit fifteen rounds to a decision, he might win the championship by outpointing Dempsey.

Carpentier's friends believe that he is clever enough to box Dempsey and stay away for fifteen rounds.

Murphy Drives Neva to Win

Teledo, O.—Neva Brooke, driven by Murphy, won the 215 trot in straight heats in easy fashion at the Grand Circuit meeting Friday.

Hal Mahone won the Whills-Overland 15,000 stake for 208 paces, taking the last two heats after Red Lamont captured the first.

Good Watters won the Cresceus stake for 2 year olds with only three starters.

The great Miss Morris turned in her second victory of the week when Cox drove her at the head of the 210 trot.

Talia M. Direct won the 213 pace after Baby Ginter had won the first heat. The horses were shipped Friday night to Kalamazoo.

Iowa Champ Meets Evans

Chicago. — R. E. Knapper of Sioux City, Iowa, champion and Princeton student, reaching the finals for the first time, Sunday contested the Western Amateur Golf title with "Chick" Evans, five times winner of the honor, twice national amateur golf premier and once national open champion, over 35 holes at the Westmoreland Country club.

Knapper won his way to the finals by defeating George Hartman, a Chicago public links roller 3 to 2 in the 36 hole semi-finals Friday, while Evans worked his way to the ultimate round by disposing of Harrison Johnston, of St. Paul, 5 to 4.

BAKERS AND CLUB POSTPONE BATTLE

Arrangements were made between the Club Billiards and the Bakers in the city league to postpone their game scheduled for the fair grounds Friday night. The reason announced was that the Bakers were in a crippled condition.

Expect 20 Local Golfers to Play at State Tourney

Approximately 20 Janesville golfers are expected to play in the state tournament which takes place on the links of the Kenosha country club starting Tuesday and continuing through Saturday. Although only six have officially sent in their applications, the others are believed to be set to make the trip.

Every effort is being made by the Kenosha club to make the tournament this year bigger than ever. Special committees have been appointed to look after the comfort and entertainment of the guests of which there will be several hundred from all parts of the state.

Considerable interest is being shown in the Father-Son event. This looks as if it would develop into the feature of the meet.

According to the arrangements being made, there will be plenty of fun for the amateur who is not expert. All who play between 10 and 110 will have an equal show at the prizes.

The classic of the tourney is the Yule cup contest. Janesville expects to enter a team in this match, although the members have not been picked as yet. This event has done much toward developing the golf spirit in Wisconsin.

The championship is expected to center around Cavanaugh, present holder, Mills of Milwaukee, Guilford of Racine and Foster of Beloit. Zerkow of Beloit and Douglas of Green Lake are considered excellent contenders.

Blood Game Between Rails and Crescents

Blood and lots of it will be spilled at Charley Bluff on the shores of Lake Koshkonong Sunday afternoon, when the Janesville Rails meet the Milton Junction Crescents in a rubber game. The previous results of games between these teams this season has been an even split. The out-of-towners are evenly matched as any amateur aggregation in Southern Wisconsin. A large crowd is expected. The game starts at 2:30.

Morgan Cup Golf Delayed

Play in the finals of the Morgan Cup tournament of the Janesville Country club is halted temporarily on account of the illness of Dr. P. E. Mansworth. The match was scheduled to be finished this week. Because of this situation, start in the President's cup tournament is also held back.

WOLVES IN RUBBER WITH FOOTVILLE SOX

A rubber game between the Janesville Wolves and the Footville Sox is scheduled for Sunday afternoon at Footville. The batteries will be Miller and Dickinson for the Wolves, Easton and Wilke for the Sox.

SAM MANDELL DEFEATS ASHER

Aurora, Ill. — Sammy Mandell of Rockford, Ill., defeated "Babe" Asher of St. Louis, bantamweight champion of the American Forces, in a 10 round bout here, newspaper decision.

This gives Sammy, the smiling lad of the Forest city, the right to meet Pal Moore in a battle for the bantamweight championship of the bantamweight. When Mandell came to Janesville for the first show of the Janesville athletic club, the Gazette predicted that he would see a rapid rise. That forecast is coming true. There is more than half a chance that Sammy will cop off a win from Moore.

WHY BABE LIKES TO HIT 'EM OVER FENCE

Ruth being tagged out at third, Welsh to Dykes to Dugan, trying to stretch his double to a triple.

"One reason I like to slam the ball out of the lot is that nobody can throw you out at first, second, third or home," remarks Babe Ruth. Babe Ruth is no Clyde Milan or Tris Speaker or Sam Rice when it comes to running the bases. He has already fallen victim to fast fielding while running on his hits that weren't homers. The photo above, taken during the opening Yankee-Athletic series, shows what happened to him after doubling.

GAZETTE WANT ADS

COMPLETELY BLANKETS THIS RICH TERRITORY

Phone That Ad

For Sale—Ice box, good condition. Price $15. Call at 223 Prospect avenue or call 1122 Blue.

Mr. Nequette, 223 Prospect avenue, was very much surprised when the small 'Want ad' above brought 15 inquiries for the icebox. How could he have found a buyer for it any sooner?

'Want Ads' in the Gazette will always do the job in the quickest and most satisfactory manner. Phone in your ad today and get results at once.

19 Looking for Ice Boxes

Is your icebox large enough or is it too small? Then why not sell it and buy one nearer the size you want. You can sell it as easily as give it away. There are 19 people in Janesville who will buy it. Mr. Bates' at 619 Court street found that out when he sold his and besides the person who bought it, 19 others inquired about it.

WHO WANT TO BUY WHAT YOU HAVE TO SELL OR HAVE TO SELL WHAT YOU WANT TO BUY.

Time Is Ripe

Couch for sale. Bell phone 2830.

Mrs. Carey at 115 Center avenue, is another Classified user who is thoroughly satisfied with the results of a For Sale ad in the Gazette. She sold the couch in just a short time after the paper was out.

There were five inquiries. That leaves four still wanting a couch. So if you have one to sell now is your time.

Call 77 and you can turn it in to cash in just a few hours.

Used Cars Are in Demand Here

Used cars are not a drug on the market. A sale can be found for them. There are not enough to supply the demand, or at least it proved so in this case.

C. P. Boers offered a Ford sedan for sale through Gazette Want Ads. It was just a small ad.

AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE. FOR SALE—My Ford Sedan in first class condition. All oversized tires. A real bargain. C. P. Boers. Both phones.

It brought the man to buy the car. Although Mr. Boers had 8 inquiries, he sold it to the first man who answered the ad.

You can insert an ad any time by calling 77 on your nearest telephone.

100 Inquiries

FOR SALE—Oak dining room table and chairs, walnut table, turned out writing desk, Brunswick phonograph, Hoover sweeper, antique chairs, Wilton rug 9-12, Oriental rug, glass rug, wardrobe, bedding, dishes, sewing machine, Mrs. N. L. Sage.

Have you any of the things listed in the above Want ad? Mrs. N. L. Sage ran the ad in the GAZETTE just two nights. She has sold almost all of the furniture. Undoubtedly she will sell the balance in a day or so. But even that is not so wonderful as is the fact that ONE HUNDRED or more people have made inquiries about the furniture.

You can not find a quicker or surer way of filling your wants than through Gazette Classified ads. That not only applies to the sale of furniture and miscellaneous articles, but to every human need.

Many Seeking Baby Carriages

Lots of people in Janesville are in need of a baby carriage. Or at least there seems to be from the number who answered this ad.

FOR SALE—Large gray road baby carriage. Bell 837.

The woman who advertised it sold it to the first one who called. After that she had about 12 replies. She had sold the carriage, so they were disappointed. These people should insert an ad to buy a baby carriage. They would get a chance then to be the first one to see it. And could buy if they wished.

A WANT AD in the Gazette is the quickest means of filling your wants.
